Comic Constitution

There shall be no stealing ideas/characters from other peoples' comic. The creator of the comic does not have to let it go, he/she can rip up the comic if they do not approve. And they have to write the owner of the comic comic name on the title, if they don't they have to throw away/tear the title and the writer has to write a new one.